Drunk driving prevention program coming to Val Verde County

Program teaches that automobiles, alcohol, and asphalt don't mix

WhenSeanSpeaks, a powerful, real life story about the consequences of riding with a drunk driver, will be presented Thursday, Sept 5, 2019 at:

Del Rio High School at 08:30 a.m.

Students will learn about safety behind the wheel of a car.

Sean Carter and his mom, Jenny, have taken their message to more than 350,00 people to help prevent drunk driving and to make people aware of the consequences of their choices.

Without uttering a word, Sean holds a lively conversation. Using an iPad that speaks the words he types, Sean captures young peoples' hearts and has immediate rapport with his audience as he shares his story. In a coma for 39 days following the crash, Sean is now well down the path of his new life.

WhenSeanSpeaks provides a frank look at the circumstances and choices that Sean made that placed him in a wheelchair, unable to talk or walk. Jenny, Sean's full-time caregiver and traveling companion, shares her story from day one of Sean's crash on March 27, 2005, to the lives they lead now.
