Use of Electronic Media with Students

Electronic media includes all forms of social media, such as text messaging, instant messaging, electronic mail (e-mail), Web logs (blogs), electronic forums (chat rooms), video-sharing Web sites (e.g., YouTube), editorial comments posted on the Internet, and social network sites (e.g., Facebook, MySpace, Twitter, LinkedIn). Electronic media also includes all forms of telecommunication such as landlines, cell phones, and Web-based applications.

Personal Use of Electronic Media

As role models for the District's students, employees are responsible for their public conduct even when they are not acting as District employees. Employees will be held to the same professional standards in their public use of electronic media as they are for any other public conduct. If an employee's use of electronic media interferes with the employee's ability to effectively perform his or her job duties, the employee is subject to disciplinary action, up to and including termination of employment. If an employee wishes to use a social network site or similar media for personal purposes, the employee is responsible for the content on the employee's page, including content added by the employee, the employee's friends, or members of the public who can access the employee's page. The employee is also responsible for Web links on the employee's page and for maintaining privacy settings appropriate to the content.

An employee who uses electronic media for personal purposes must observe the following:

1. The employee may not set up or update the employee's personal social network page(s) using the District's computers, network, or equipment.

[See PERSONAL USE OF ELECTRONIC MEDIA, above] Unsolicited contact from a student through electronic means is not a communication.

An employee who does not have a valid educational purpose, a family relationship, or other appropriate relationship with a student subject to approval of the parent or guardian will not use electronic media to communicate with a student. Examples of acceptable non-educational reasons to communicate with a student via electronic media include: serving as a mentor to a student, having a relationship with a student who is a niece or nephew, the child of an

2. All communications with students via electronic media must be appropriate in content and must provide a clear benefit to the student.
3. Electronic media may not be used by an employee to develop a social relationship with a student beyond the relationship that already exists outside the use of electronic media.
4. The employee is prohibited from knowingly communicating with students through a personal social network page; the employee must create a separate social network page ("professional page") for the purpose of communicating with students. The employee must enable administration and parents to access the employee's professional page.
5. The employee will not communicate directly with any student between the hours of 9:00 p.m. and 6:00 a.m. An employee may, however, make public posts to a social network site, blog, or similar application at any time. A teacher at the secondary level may respond to a student's request for a response directly related to a valid educational purpose in the subject for which that teacher is responsible for providing instruction.

The following provisions also apply to employees who use electronic media to communicate with students who are family members or who have another appropriate relationship with a student subject to approval of the parent or guardian:

3. The employee continues to be subject to applicable state and federal laws, local policies, administrative regulations, and the Code of Ethics and Standard Practices for Texas Educators, including:
  - Compliance with the Public Information Act and the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), including retention and confidentiality of student records. [See policies CPC and FL]

5. Upon written request from a parent or student, the employee will discontinue communicating with the student through any form of one-to-one electronic communication.
6. In all cases, an employee must exercise discretion and sound judgment when communicating with a student via electronic media.

For additional information on the proper use of electronic media and technology resources, see CQ(LOCAL) and CQ(REGULATION).

The provisions in this regulation are extensions of the professional standards of conduct. Nothing in this regulation should be construed to support unprofessional conduct at any level.
