About this Quarrel

Viewer Vaughn Mccord stated, "I have never seen anything like it. Lucky, no one was hurt."

Ant Hole Outrage!

The vacant ant hole

Tuesday, 26 ,2021

Some viewers say that it was fun to watch. Some say it was so bad, that they couldn't bare to look. An anonymous 4th grader had stepped on the ant hole located in front of the 5th graders' classroom. The fight was said to have started halfway through the 4th graders' daily soccer game.

After both students set aside their differences and made amends for what transpired and students thought it was all history, round two began. Another ant hole had been found near a pole in the playground. An anonymous student recalled the events. While student 2 was examining it, and had gotten up to play with the rest of the class, the another argument ensued. The news of the event shocked the school... The school was forced to take action. After school hours an exterminator appeared caring a jug filled with a concoction made just for the 6 legged residents of the holes. The holes were thoroughly sprayed. Unfortunately the liquid contained toxins that are fatal to ants. -Sophia (4th grader)

Writing Club with a New Name

The 3rd grade students described it as a moment of sheer happiness. The 5th graders described it as a perfect moment to quit. The popular, worldwide "Ready Writing" (a competition of writing a truly fantastic story) Had been turned into a club.

New beginning, New name

An ongoing vote was happening! The catastrophic 4th graders stopped talking loudly to listen as the votes were being cast... It was a battle between two AMAZING names, "The Writing Falcons," and , "The Fiction Fandom". A pin dropped as headmaster Priscilla Nguyen counted the remaining votes... " The winner is... " suspense in the large classroom got more intense as the hyper students were about to fall off their seats... "THE FICTION FANDOM!!! " The 3rd and 5th graders clapped as the 4th graders burst out who-ing in excitement. It was final.
